

Your story matters.
Plan it with intention.

LifeCounsel®

Family Tree: Who You Are & Where You Came From

As I mentioned in the LifeCounsel podcast, one of the first things I do when people come in to see me, is I ask them to sketch out their family tree, beginning with their parents.

Choose one of the three quick, easy to fill in diagrams based on marital status. Hover for tool tip, and insert names of relatives.

Married Couples-No Previous Marriage

Parents Include mothers' maiden names
You, Spouse, Your Siblings
Your Children (& spouse)
Your Grandchildren

Married Couples With Previous Marriage(s)

Parents Include mothers' maiden names.
You, Spouse,          Your Siblings
Your Children          (&amp; spouse)
Your          Grandchildren
Previous          Marriage(s)
Previous          Children
Previous          Grandchildren

Single

Parents Include mother's maiden name
You &amp; Your Siblings
Nieces &amp; Nephews
Other

Disclaimer

The materials provided by LifeCounsel® are offered for informational purposes only and do not constitute legal advice. LifeCounsel® and its representatives are providing these resources in a non-attorney capacity, and no attorney-client relationship is created by your use or access to this content. Even if the author or presenter is an attorney, your use of the material does not establish an attorney-client relationship. The content provided should be utilized solely at your own risk. LifeCounsel® strongly advises consulting with a licensed attorney in your jurisdiction who specializes in estate planning, elder law, or related fields to obtain personalized legal advice suitable to your specific circumstances.